A Bridgeport paper says: "I could get a room and bath, gas and electric lights, hot and cold running water, telephone connections, bell boy services, and everything else first class for that money," reflected William Wood, a foundryman of Norwich, Conn., as he tried to think where he could raise

William walked into police head-quarters late Tuesday svening, with more booze aboard than one man can conveniently carry. He asked for lodgings. Department Commander At Camp Fire

Sedgwick Post Had Many Guests Including Large Delegation From New London-Speeches, Music and Re-

New London, filling the post hall close to its seating capacity. Department Commander Edson S. Bishop of Hartford and Department Patriotic Instructor C. H. Potter of Danielson represented the state organization, and fifteen members of W. W. Perkins post with 25 members of W. W. Perkins Relief corps of New London were guests by invitation, while the Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, Sedgwick camp, Sons of Veterans, and the Citizens' corps likewise responded to the invitations they had received to attend.

While the comrades and their guests were assembling, Bullard's orchestra played, and also at intervals later in the programme. Commander Hovey opened the campfire at 7.30 with a cordial welcome to all present, and presided through the evening with ar facility that contributed to the enjoyment of all present.

Reverence of the Flag. Reverence of the Flag.

Department Patriotic Instructor Potter was the first speaker, directing his brief remerks to emphasis of the importance of training the children of the foreign born in the proper feeling of reverence for the flag and institutions of our republican form of government. He mentioned that Italian children seemed to absorb the right ideas of loyalty and patriotism less readily than those of other races now coming to this country.

New London Speakers.

New London Spakers.

Commander A. J. Chandler of W. W. Perkins post and Lafayette W. Starr, officer of the day of the same post, both spoke with especial acceptance of the pleasure felt by the New London comrades in accepting the invitation to the Sedgwick post campfire, and referred to the pride that the comrades could feel in having had a part in saving the flag unsullied. They spoke also of the part played by the mothers, wives and sweethearts in war times, entitling them to a large share in the honors that the men in the field won.

Relief Corps Members. At thos point Department Commander Bishop, who had arrived late, came into the hall and was escorted to the platform, while the entire assemblage arose in greeting to him and apppauded. A solo by Comrade J. H. George, post department instructor,

Warren Lee Goss Heard.

Warren Lee Goss Heard.

A poem, From Atlanta to the Sea, was read with much expression by Miss Olice Carpenter, and was followed by some especilly interesting war reminiscences by Warren Lee Goss of Rutherford, N. J., a comrade of Sedgwick post. He amused his hearers greatly by his description of his ragged attire and told how the fact that his Harvard chum was a Maine boy had won him a sweet potato dinner and a clerical job in connection with the rebel prison. Another solo, Krep the Campfifre Burning Bright, by Comrade George, closed the formal programme, and the social hour was inaugurated with the serving of refreshments. These were in charge of Quartermaster Charles F. Geer and Quartermaster S. S. Stocking, who were assisted by a large delegation of the Sons of Veterans. The Relief corps women escorted the New London women into the post room, where they wese served, while the men of the two posts had their sandwiches, coffee, cheese and doughnuts in the post hall. The orchestra played for the informal social time which closed the evening.

NORWICH MEN ATTEND CONFERENCE OF LAYMEN. MISS EMILY S. GILMAN Received by Parish House Association

About Twenty from This City Were at New London to Hear Interesting

There were about twenty members The regular monthly meeting of the of the Baptist churches of this city who went to New London on Friday the Osgood Memorial on Friday afterevening to attend the meeting of the Baptist laymen of eastern Connecticut Arnold, conducted the meeting, and the in the interests of the laymen's misusual reports of secretary and treassionary movement. There were adurer were read. In the treasurer's report was disclosed a gift of $500 from the late Miss Emily B. Gilman which was received with much appreciation by the society. A letter from a missionary in the southern Alleghanies was read by the president of the Home Missionary society and two of the De Beriot's Etudes for violin were charmingly rendered by Miss Lucile Peck, with plano accompaniment by Miss Annie Tafft. Miss Fannie L. Bliss gave an interesting talk on England, taking her audience through the cathedral dresses by Rev. Mr. Jackma and Rev.

dresses by Rev. Mr. Jackma and Rev. Dr. Ferguson of India, while Rev. Dr. W. T. Stackhouse, secretary of the Baptist laymen's missionary movement, gave a rousing address.

The meeting was held in the First Baptist church of that city and from here there were Rev. P. C. Wright, Rev. R. F. True, Rev. J. F. Cobb, Adams Carroll, A. Thatcher Otis, Frank Arnold, George Ashby, Edward S. Purvis, C. C. Treat, Charles H. Ames, James L. Case, J. C. Darby, R. H. Gray, C. R. Gallup, Smith Barnes and Mr. Beckwith.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY PARTY Celebrated for Mrs. F. E. Green and Daughter, Mrs. Frank J. James.

with plane accompaniment by Miss Annie Tafft. Miss Fannie L. Bliss gave an interesting talk on England, taking her audience through the cathedral towns of that country and to the two famous universities. After a flying trip to Paris, the Swiss lakes and up the Rhine to Belgium and Holland, she crossed over to England from the Hook to Harwich and went direct from here to Norwich, England. On the way from here to London the Ely cathedral in its beautiful park and the university at Cambridge. Side trips from London were taken to Windsor, to Pew Gardens and to the observatory and museum at Greenwich. A pilgrimage to Canterbury came next, with the shrine of Thomas A. Becket in the old cathedral and an even older church, built in part by the Saxons. Salisbury cathedral is pure Gothic in design, of wonderful slenderness and lightness and with a spire 400 feet high. Near here were seen Hilton house, the home of the Earl of Pembroke, and the ancient Druid ruins of Stonehenge. The old abbey at Glastonbury, the cathedral at Wells, the caves at Cheddar Cliffs and the hot springs and Roman relics at Bath were of much interest. But more so was Oxford, the famous university which includes 22 colleges, one of which possesses the oldest library in Europe, dating from 1444. At Warwich is the old castle and near here are Kenilwerth castle and Stratford-on-Avon, Lincoln cathedral, with its angel choir, and York, largest of all and having the most beautiful stained glass windows, came next. Then Fountain abbey in its park and Whitby abbey on its high bluff prepared for Durham and its Norman cathedral. Chester, with its surrounding city walls, was the last cathedral town visited before embarking at Liverpool.

Another delightful violin solo was then given by Miss Peck, a waitz by Gillette, with De Beriot's 12th Etude as an encore number. Chocolate was served by the social committee. Mrs. John F. Rogers, chairman, Mrs. Neville Blicq, Miss Bliss and Miss Loring. Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn poured. A double birthday party arranged as a surprise for Mrs. Frank E. Green of No. 18 Rock street and also to celebrate the birthday anniversary of her daughter, Mrs. Frank J. James of Providence, which comes within a day of her mother's, was successfully carried out on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Green, the guests being a party of 40 members of Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 25, I. O. O. F., of which Mrs. Green is a past officer and a highly esteemed member. The party also included Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Nodine of Torrington. The preliminary arrangements were kept an entire secret from Mrs. Green, whose surprise was the greater as the date of the party preceded by several days the actual date of the birthday anniversary.

Emphasis to the cordial birthday greetings and wishes was added by a numbeer of individual gifts. The entertainment of the evening consisted of whist and music, and sandwiches, cake and ice cream were served, those assisting being Miss Mildred Comstock, Miss Sybil Christman, Miss Ruth McNeil and Miss Alice Revell. The evening was a delightful one to all present and the gathering broke up at a late hour with many expressions of good wishes for the two whose birthdays were celebrated.

At the session of the board of county commissioners at New London on Friday, Mr. Hass, representing the Painters' union, appeared before the hoard and stated that the union painters are dissatisfied with the work which the prisoners are allowed to do in the jail in regard to finishing some of the work which is taken there to be done. He cited a case in which not over $25 was realized from the job, and the board stated that it is necessary to keep the prisoners at work, and that they would look into it, not intending to hurt any class of workmen by the labor at the jail.

The commissioners are recuired to keep the prisoners employed, but they are not doing so for the money in it. The main object is that the prisoners must be relieved of the horrible lone-liness of doing nothing while in jail and they have them cane chairs, do small repair jobs on furniture and some finishing, besides beating carpets and the like. It is done by every county in the state. There is no advertising done in regard to this work, and the commissioners will probably keep the prisoners employed lines so as not to hurt honest workmen.

PRUDENCE CRANDALL.

Effort Being Made to Get a Monum to Her Memory.

The appropriation committee was treated this week to an interesting historical review of the work done in Connecticut by Prudence Crandall, who led the fight for the glucation of colored children, and after being run out of Canterbury, in 1832 secured a refuge in Packersville. Her educational work among the colored people prospered and today an effort is being made to secure an appropriation of $1,500 for a monument to her memory. The bill nominates Charles S. Hyde of Canterbury, Senator Thomas O. Elliott of the Twenty-ninth district and Representative Caleb T. Bishop of Plainfield as a monument committee.

CHILDREN'S LETTERS. How Parrots Are Taught.

The first thing the teacher says to them in the morning, "Well, boys, good morning; how do you do today?" They can all say this nicely. It's amusing also to watch their gymnastics. They go through the funniest acrobatic feats and turn the maddest kind of somersaults, always to come up serenely on their perches, and sit there quietly for a while, with heads cocked on one side.
